Our CEO, Arman Sarhaddar, attended various summits to drive awareness for Vault Security Systems, such as the Crypto Valley summit in Zug, Switzerland and the Blockchain Leadership Summit in Basel, Switzerland. "The contacts made at these summits are very valuable for our future collaboration and we appreciate the huge interest in our development of iVault, the first global blockchain database and platform for registering, identifying and protecting counterfeit products and lost or stolen items" says Arman Sarhaddar.

While the iVault product is more and more gaining shape and form, the management team of Vault Security Systems AG is also almost completed with a number of assignments of highly experienced managers and external agencies. The C-Level team just released initial video-statements, the start of a regular information strategy to keep investors and supporters up to date. At this time, you can find the statements of the Chief Executive Officer Arman Sarhaddar, the Chief Operating Officer Dr. Urs E. Gattiker and the Chief Marketing Officer Lothar Rentschler either on YouTube or by clicking this link.

Vault Security Systems AG is the world's first global network to use blockchain technology for registering and identifying assets (such as lost items or stolen property). The network– which is open to everyone – lets users register their items on the blockchain through the iVAULT APP plus search for and identify items. These assets can be almost anything of value to the owner. For more information visit www.vaultsecurity.io or register at iVAULT.app.
